One (continued) And knew no more, nor gave me o poor word; Merlin and V. 277
Take o verse more—the lady speaks it—this: „ 445
Yet is there o true line, the pearl of pearls: „ 459
Read but o book, and ever reading grew „ 622
And since he kept his mind on o sole aim, „ 626
Was o year gone, and on returning found Not two but three? there lay the reckling, o But o hour old! „ 708
And not the o dark hour which brings remorse, „ 763
But have ye no o word of loyal praise For Arthur, „ 778
I will go. In truth, but o thing now— „ 918
send O flash, that, missing all things else, „ 932
the o passionate love Of her whole life; „ 955
in o moment, she put forth the charm „ 967
Carved of o emerald center'd in a sun Of silver rays, Lancelot and E. 295
'Stay a little! O golden minute's grace! „ 684
